

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We are deeply indebted to all those who have acted to preserve and record these first laws of Pennsylvania, particularly the American Philosophical Society, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, Division of Archives and Manuscripts, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; and the Division of Historical and Cultural Affairs, Department of State, Hall of Records, Dover, Delaware. The staff of all of these groups has been extremely cooperative and helpful in this endeavor. Indeed, without their assistance and the work that was done during the past 100 years, this volume would never have been printed.

Over the years, many individuals have worked on locating, compiling, and transcribing these early laws and our gratitude for their efforts goes to all of them, individually and collectively. Singular recognition is given to the late Dr. Donald Kent of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission for the many hours he spent in editing the laws and in preparing footnotes.

Special acknowledgment goes to Joan Appleton Jones, M.L.S., who created the index to this volume.
